

Lady Land
Bernard Descamps

This book is a poetic stroll where you can stroll through the wooded countryside, naked bodies in a room, beds calm rivers or snow that we evoke body. This work of great sensitivity and great sensuality is in communion landscapes and nudes.

Lady Land is an imaginary country, a country that runs a photographer, a melancholy and solitary walker.

One country, one body, we no longer know very well, female, male ... or both.

A country made of earth, herbs, water and perfume, trees prepared, rhythm flowing soils and fog that rises in the winter morning ...

Everything is calm, quiet, no trouble breathing does this strange appointment, the waiting ... the desire of both horizontal and vertical ...

Lady Land is a tale of winter.
