

La chute
Denis Darzacq

Virginie Chardin

The series "La chute" features the bodies of dancers in weightlessness Hip Hop Capoeira and contemporary dance. A "fall of the angel of the 2000s, all tension and energy, between heaven and earth. "Just after the crisis of the suburbs in 2005 between gravity and seriousness, I made some photographs suspended in a generic architecture and popular. I like that in the era of Photoshop, photography and can still surprise witness moments that really existed, without tricks or manipulations," explains Denis Darzacq. ...) In cities of a popular and urban Paris, he created images of baroque body in zero gravity, levitate. Propulsion. Loss severity. Energy. Thrust. Toggles perspective. And a question: what happens to this energy? What about those who want to enter the body in which I might crash to the ground if ignored, if allowed to fall.
